

The Montgomery County Sheriff's Office and its Relation to the State and National Averages

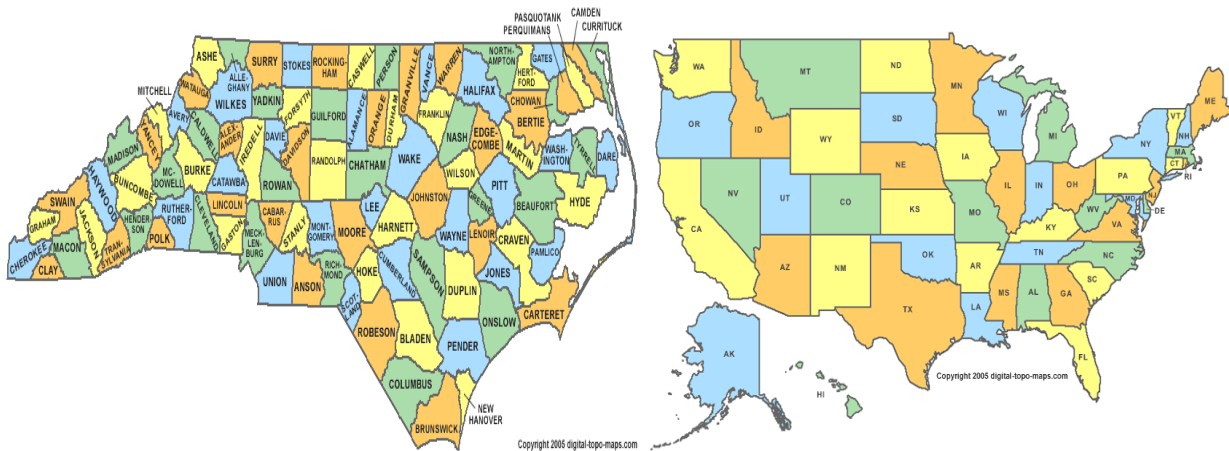

By: Miranda Owens

Summer Ventures: A World View of Mathematics and Data Analysis

Taught By:

Dr. John R. Taylor and Mrs. Desiré J. Taylor

July 30, 2011

ABSTRACT

The Montgomery County Sheriff's Office is compared to the state and the nation in many different ways during this data analysis. Montgomery County actually has a crime rate close to the nation, but Montgomery County's average salary is way under the national average for a sheriff deputy. Not only is Montgomery County compared to the nation, it is compared to the state. The salary of the Montgomery County Sheriff's Office was compared to larger counties and counties similar to the size of Montgomery in population, square miles, number of deputies, average salary, and even crime rate. After these tests were administered one will understand that Montgomery County is not as different as one thought.